

The principle of strengthening external audit is sound, but of little practical help in the public sector where PCAS struggles to get auditors for a number of reasons:

Some firms refusing to tender for work (not profitable?)

Difficulty in recruiting individual auditors experienced in public sector work

Complexity of public sector accounts

Michael Nadin MSc, BSc Econ, CPFA

