

Dear Team,

By the way of this email, we at the Bar Standards Board – regulators of the Barristers - are submitting our response to your consultation on Corporate Code Governance, the deadline for which is today.

We have a particular interest in the role of in-house lawyers (especially the duty to act independently) and are working on a guidance that we will be discussing with stakeholders from autumn. We will be happy to share this guidance with you in due course as well. In the meantime, we encourage you to bear in-house lawyers' professional duties in mind when reviewing your code.

Please do not hesitate to get in touch with us if you have any further questions or would like to discuss this response further.
